Water Supply and the Great Palace in Constantinople

Kerim Altug, Atatürk Library

This lecture will consider the case of the water supply facilities of Constantinople's imperial palaces. A summary of complementary information on the urban water-supply network based on recent studies will also be presented. In this context, it is emphasized that the network of cisterns and water channels should be treated as an integral part of the city's hydraulic infrastructure and archaeological data revealing its possible connections with the elite buildings of Byzantium

We kindly request that you do not attend if you are not fully vaccinated against COVID or if you are experiencing any COVID-related symptoms. Ffp2 face mask will be mandatory. Limited seating 30 persons. Registration is necessary. Please register at event@sri.org.tr. The lecture will not be available online.
