Feminist graphic novelists

For many years both Sweden and Turkey have had a strong tradition of powerful feminist graphic novelists challenging societal norms, provoking debates and giving voice to the feminist movement. We are happy to bring together the editors from two influential magazines, Ramize Erer from Bayan Yanı from Turkey and Rojin Petrow from the Swedish comic book magazine Galago together with Swedish cartoonist Elin Lucassi and feminist humour researcher Gamzehan Binici from Giresun University Radio and Television Department. To give an overview of feminist graphic novelists in both countries and to discuss differences and similarities and artistic approaches.
